"I enjoy being in small classes where everyone knows who you are." — Julia Slyaktina, Class of 2015

Take Root

It's easy to get settled in your home-away-from-home in our residence halls. They're a comfortable place to live among new friends and classmates, and we make it easy to acclimate to every aspect of life on campus.

- Individualized attention in the residence halls with a student-to-RA ratio of 17:1
- First year students have free, in hall tutoring from Peer Educators
- A cozy lounge for commuters to work, chat and relax between classes
- 24/7/365 on-call campus security

Grow With Us

Find your own adventure on campus, and get fully engaged in the Post experience.

Make friendships that last a lifetime on our small, close-knit campus. Get personal attention from professors who know your name. You'll even see our president, Don Mroz, all over campus.

There are lots of great perks to Campus Life at Post University. Here are just a few:

- Every Thursday through Saturday, we offer the Late Night Lounge program where students can come and enjoy food, events, movies, games, and themed nights from 7 p.m. to 12 a.m.
- Free Zumba and Yoga classes in the Eagle's Nest every week for Post students
- Annual trips to Six Flags, the Big E, Broadway, and professional athletic games throughout the year

You can also join one of our many student-run organizations, or start your own. Take exciting trips to nearby New York City or Boston. Even take part in a once-in-a-lifetime study abroad experience!

Your Family Tree

Our average student-teacher ratio is 11 to 1.

What does that mean to you?

It means more personal attention from your professors.

It means getting to know your classmates better.

It means more one-on-one.

You'll become part of our supportive network, where you'll get an in-depth education with real-world experience, advice and attention from academic advisors, and a community of students who want to help you succeed.

You won't just move forward.
You'll grow and evolve,
academically and personally.

Take Flight

Leading the team as a student-athlete will take you everywhere you want to go. Post University athletes are exceptional leaders on and off the field—and they have some of the highest GPAs on campus.

Athletics is a big part of the culture at Post University. Games are charged with excitement, and our LaMoy field, updated to a turf field in 2011, is the center of it all. Cheer on our teams and be part of our enduring school spirit.

Whether you're a student-athlete or you just want to stay fit, the weight room and cardio equipment available to all students in our updated Drubner Fitness Center will keep you at the top of your game.

STUDENT-ATHLETE SPOTLIGHT

Be Driven

Join our Honors Community and get inspired.

When you live among your classmates and surround yourself with other highly motivated students in our challenging Honors Community, you'll not only support one another, but you'll also motivate each other. Set goals and raise the bar to get the most of your education here at Post.

Here are just a few of the perks of being part of the Honors Community:

- Choose your roommates and housing as a freshman
- Priority course registration
- Opportunity to graduate with distinction
- Personalized support services like Honors advising, career coaching, mentoring, and ongoing support from the Honors Program Director
- Many significant scholarships available that are renewed annually, based on academic standing

“The Honors Program at Post University has given me an amazing experience.... I've attended the Regional Honors Conference and plan to make a presentation of my own next year. I've attended operas, and theater productions, and other events, and it's been a great overall experience that's improved and furthered my knowledge in all areas...business, culture, and so many more.”

— Katherine Murrell, Class of 2014
