This February, we're celebrating a month of love and giving for Delaware State University. Throughout this month, we're talking with students, faculty, staff, and alumni to find out why they love Delaware State University and give to support the University. Look for the hashtag #ILOVEDSU and share your story with our community!

As our community shows their love for Delaware State University, we want to take this opportunity to show our love and appreciation for our donors. Without you, we could never fund the many educational opportunities we offer to our students today.

We also hope that as you hear the many reasons why our community loves Delaware State University, you'll consider donating to our I Love DSU campaign to once again support the students, the programs, and the University you love.
